

Local Harvest Service Project

Matthew 28:19–20 says, “Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age.”

The Bible calls us to share the good news of Jesus to anyone we meet, whether they are near or far! But “making disciples” can mean a lot of different things, and sometimes the best way to start is to serve them. William Carey did this by teaching in schools, helping those in need, and providing books and education for those that didn’t have access. You too can serve in your community and be a part of the great harvest! Here are some ideas to get you started.

Serve a local school!

There are many underprivileged or underfunded schools that need extra school supplies! You can help by packing backpacks with school supplies to give to schools in need around your city. Or, you might see if there is a “supply drive” going on that you can contribute to.

Read to the elderly

Find a retirement home and volunteer to read or play games with the folks living there!

Volunteer at the Library

An extra set of helping hands is often needed at local libraries. Contact your local library to see if they have any service opportunities for you to help with.

Habitat for Humanity

Do you have a habitat for humanity near you? Every middle school age child can volunteer with Habitat for Humanity to help build houses and gather donations. Find out more about how to volunteer at the Habitat for Humanity website.

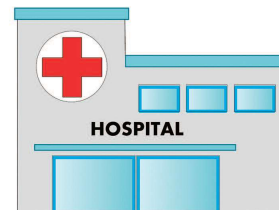

continued on next page

Visit a children's hospital

Oftentimes the people that need to hear the good news of the gospel are those in the most need. Find out if you have a children's hospital near you and volunteer to bring flowers, balloons, or cards to the children staying there. Or, brighten their day with an in-person visit!

Brainstorm your own ideas for how to be a part of the local harvest here:

As a group we decided to serve....

Reflect on your experience serving by answering these questions:

1. What did you learn about The Great Commission and how you can be part of the great harvest of souls?
2. Were you surprised at how many people there are around you who need service and the good news of the Gospel?
3. Can you find a place in the Bible where Jesus served the same kind of people you served?